As student artists with disabilities, you have the right to ...

- The fundamental respect accorded to all members of the UArts community.
- Equal access to learn, create, and participate in any and all campus activities.
- Written or spoken information available to them in a format which is accessible to you.
- Equal opportunity to participate in all UArts courses, programs, services, and activities.
- Reasonable accommodations, academic adjustments, auxiliary aids, and services as deemed necessary and appropriate by the Office of Disability Services.
- Choose when and how to use any accommodations provided by the Office of Disability Services. You are never required to use your accommodations unless you see fit.
- Respect for your privacy regarding disability-related information and communication with the Disability Services Advisor, except as disclosure is required by law. Any information you provide to the Office of Disability services will not be released to anyone (including your parents) without your express written permission.
- Appeal any decisions or actions which you feel are discriminatory based on a disability.

As student artists with disabilities, you have the responsibility to ...

- Meet the basic admissions requirements to programs at UArts.
- Self-advocate. Your education is your responsibility. The quality of your education will be a direct reflection of the effort you put into it.
- Satisfy essential academic requirements and technical standards of the College and your major program.
- Disclose fully your disability to the Office of Disability Services as early as possible if you need to request accommodations.
- Provide documentation of a qualifying disability which meets the guidelines published by the Office of Disability Services.
- Follow published procedures for requesting accommodations and faculty accommodations letters.
- Request faculty accommodations letters as early as possible each semester.
- Meet with the Disability Services Advisor at least once a semester to review accommodations.
- Be on time for classes, lessons, rehearsals, and appointments with your professors, University staff, and the Disability Services Advisor.
- Inform the Disability Services Advisor either by phone or email if you need to cancel or reschedule your appointment or test, or if you are running late.
- Attend study and life skills workshops and tutoring as recommended by the Disability Services Advisor.