ART ALLIANCE

The Philadelphia Art Alliance at UArts is the nation's oldest multidisciplinary arts center, located in the heart of Rittenhouse Square. Its galleries are open to the public and devoted to contemporary art, showcasing the work of leading makers, performers and practitioners across disciplines. The Art Alliance is home to a compelling rotation of exhibitions, performances, lectures, talks, screenings, readings and happenings of every description.

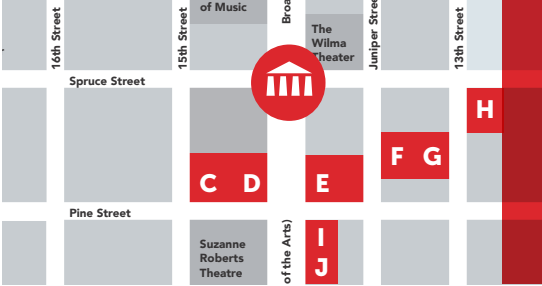

Visit uarts.edu/artalliance to learn more about the Art Alliance, including upcoming events and visiting hours.

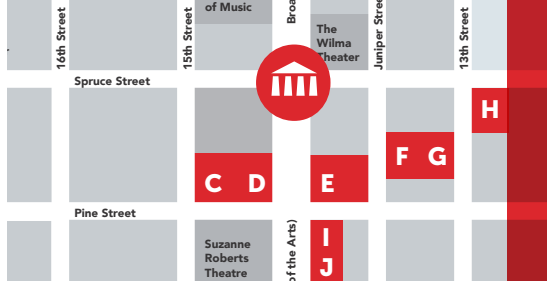

FURNESS RESIDENCE HALL

Furness Residence Hall is one of our three residence halls. Every room is apartment-style, and room types range from studios to one- or two-bedrooms, each with a shared living room and a galley kitchen.

D

HAMILTON HALL

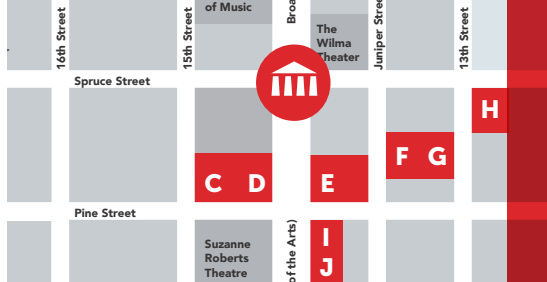

Dorrance Hamilton Hall is the oldest extant building on Broad Street. It is home to many of our administrative offices, as well as galleries and event and performance spaces such as the CBS Auditorium and Hamilton and Arronson Galleries. Hamilton Hall is also home to the Albert M. Greenfield Makerspace, a 3,500-square-foot digital and traditional fabrication studio available to the entire university community. The Makerspace serves as a catalyst for campus collaboration, experimentation and innovation.

UArts SELF-GUIDED TOUR INSTRUCTIONS

PARKING

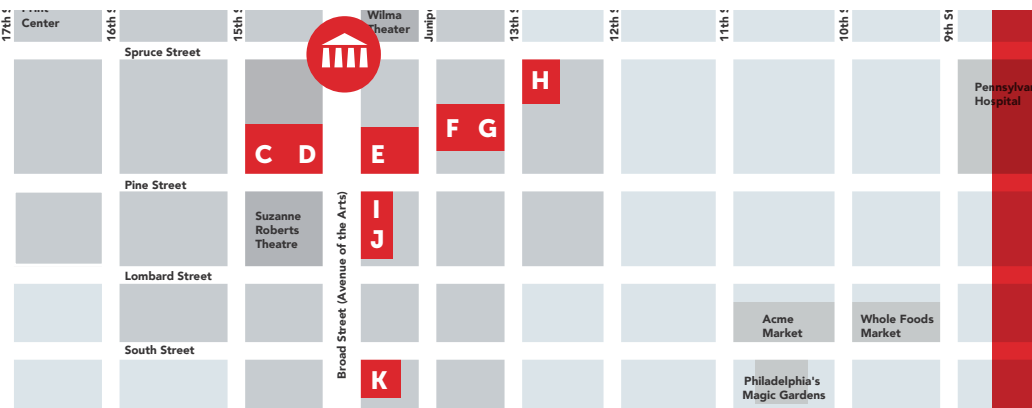

Located on Avenue of the Arts in the heart of Center City, our urban campus does not provide visitor parking. There are a number of independent parking lots and garages located near campus, many within one block of Hamilton Hall, the location of the Admissions Office. There is also free street parking available throughout the city—be sure to read the signs before you park.

SELF-GUIDED TOUR

You may want to start at our southernmost building, Arts Bank, and walk north.

Arts Bank is located at 601 S. Broad St. and is primarily a performance and rehearsal space. Arts Bank hosts a variety of productions and performances and is home to the Main Stage Theater, a rehearsal and dance studio, and the Laurie Beechman Cabaret Theater.

Walking north on Broad Street toward City Hall, our next building is the UArts Student Center, located at 401 S. Broad St. Our Student Center is home to the UArts Store and many of our offices dedicated to student services, as well as Levitt Auditorium, Lightbox Film Center, Saxbys, and YGym Dance Theater.

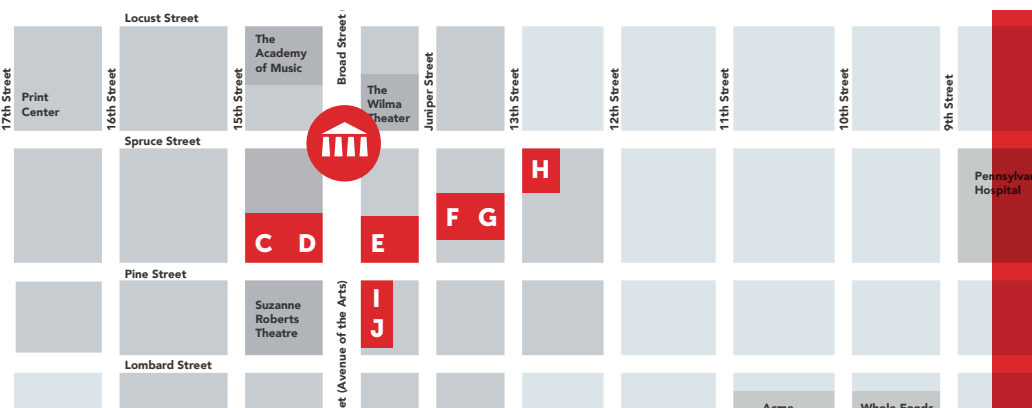

Just north of the UArts Student Center is Anderson Hall, located at 333 S. Broad St. Anderson Hall is home to many of our visual arts programs and galleries, the acclaimed Rosenwald-Wolf Gallery, and Greenfield Library.

Across the street is Dorrance Hamilton Hall, located at 320 S. Broad St. Hamilton Hall is the oldest surviving building on Broad Street. It is home to many of our administrative offices, as well as galleries and event and performance spaces, such as the CBS Auditorium, Hamilton and Arronson Galleries, and Solmssen Court.

Furness Residence Hall is the brick building directly behind Hamilton Hall. Moving west, walking along Pine Street toward 15th Street. Tucked behind Furness Residence Hall are some of our craft studios and our state-of-the-art Albert M. Greenfield Makerspace, a 3,500-square-foot digital and traditional fabrication studio available to the entire university community.

If you’ve walked down Pine Street to see Furness Residence Hall, head back to South Broad Street and turn left (heading north).

As you walk north toward City Hall, you will see the Kimmel Center for the Performing Arts, the Wilma Theater, and the Miller Theater. Many of our students and alumni have performed on those stages, and being located on Avenue of the Arts is just one of the perks of studying at UArts.

The next building you'll see is Terra Hall, located at 211 S. Broad St. (just south of Walnut Street). Terra Hall houses Terra Market, UArts' main dining location, and many of our performing and visual arts programs, as well as the state-of-the-art Laurie Wagman Recording Studios and rehearsal, classroom, office, lab, and production spaces across disciplines.

If you walk east on Walnut Street and head south on 13th Street, you'll reach Spruce Residence Hall, on the corner of Spruce and 13th streets. Juniper Residence Hall is close by on South Juniper Street.
